RCAC honors 11 winners of Neighborhood Awards

An elementary school, a former City Council member and a team of people who turned a vacant lot into a community garden are among the winners of the 2011 Neighborhood Recognition Awards.

The Raleigh Citizens Advisory Council honored the winners of the annual awards at a ceremony Oct. 19 at the McKimmon Center.

The RCAC also announced a special honor for Anne Weathersbee, former chair of the North Citizens Advisory Council, for more than 30 years of service to the community. She received the Citizen Service Award.

The RCAC includes officers of each of the 18 Citizens Advisory Councils in Raleigh. The individual CACs submit nominees for the Neighborhood Recognition Awards based on significant contributions to the community.

The winners and the CACs that nominated them were:

- Powell Elementary School and Powell Elementary PTA (East CAC), which provided meals, supplies and information to residents of the Lockwood neighborhood after the April 16 tornado.
- Wedge Garden Team (Hillsborough CAC), who turned a lot on Park Avenue into a community garden for residents of the Pullen Park, Cameron Village, Cameron Park and West Morgan neighborhoods.
- Ray Price Harley Davidson (Southwest CAC), a business on South Saunders Street that has supported or sponsored events for the benefit of tornado victims, Toys for Tots, the N.C. National Guard, Homes for Our Troops and the USO.
- Philip Bernard (Mordecai CAC), who started the Person Street Partnership, which is working to create a vibrant business community on Person Street on the north end of downtown Raleigh
- Barbara Lynn Stanley Latta (Six Forks CAC), a member of the Briarwood community who hosts a back-to-school watermelon party that has become an annual tradition in her neighborhood.
- William Spann, retired athletic director and professor at Shaw University (South CAC), who raised funds and recruited volunteers to renovate and landscape the Shaw Farm as a meeting and recreation site.
- Isabella Cannon Park Master Plan Committee (Wade CAC), a group of volunteers who participated in the process leading to the renovation of Isabella Cannon Park on the corner of Gardner Road and Kilgore Avenue.
- Mary Cates (Glenwood CAC), a former member of the Raleigh City Council, for her varied work on behalf of the community.
- Community SCALE (Five Points CAC), a community organization that advocates for the preservation of residential neighborhoods.
- Wanda's Little Hands Education Center (Southeast CAC), a five-star child care center on Poole Road serving the Southeast Raleigh community.
- Teen Outreach Program at Tarboro Road Community Center (North Central CAC), which provides a variety of after-school programs for teens in Southeast Raleigh.

Names in the news

Adam Terando, a member of the Human Relations Commission, has been appointed to the City of Raleigh Planning Commission.

Mary Willoughby, a health policy consultant with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina, has been appointed to the Fair Housing Hearing Board.

Norman Camp, chair of South CAC, received a 2011 Sir Walter Raleigh Award for Community Appearance for being the driving force behind the renewal, awareness, and appreciation of the Walnut Creek Wetlands.

New on the Raleigh Neighborhood Registry

Two more neighborhood-based organizations have joined the Raleigh Neighborhood Registry. We welcome:

- Apollo Heights Neighborhood Association in Southeast CAC
- Fairway Acres Neighborhood Association in Southwest CAC

The Neighborhood Registry is the City of Raleigh's official list of neighborhood-based organizations. Groups on the Registry are eligible for benefits such as help with mailings, festivals and neighborhood cleanups.

You can view and download the Registry at www.raleighnc.gov (search "Neighborhood Registry").
