Walnut Creek Wetland Center

Age: 16yrs and up. Listening to Nature. During part of this program a silent walk will be used to identify relationships between the soil, the water, the air, the plants, the animals, other creatures of the marsh and swamp and you. A discussion of the actions needed and ways that each of us can protect wetlands such as Walnut Creek. Join highly acclaimed NC Environmental Educator Randy Senzig as he leads this exciting new program! Registration required four days prior to the program. Class Fee: $10

#89099 Mar 13 Sa 1:00-3:00pm

Nature Observation IV

Walnut Creek Wetland Center

Age: 12yrs and up. Experience the beauty and wonder of the floodplain forest along Walnut Creek in a new way. Spring is in full swing in April and so are the birds and the wildflowers that have hidden below the leaf litter all winter. The goal of this session is to allow adults to remember their childhood experiences in nature and by removing the 'layers of leaves' that collect along forest floor we may be able to unearth the wildflowers that lay hidden below. Along the greenway we will brainstorm ideas that you can use as educators to help children feel the magic of nature while also learning the concepts of ecosystems, watersheds etc, that are also essential to Environmental Education. So whether you are an elementary, middle or high school teacher, non-formal or Parks educator, this program will provide a way of deepening your own connection with nature while also giving you resources to share this joy with youth. Class Fee: $10

#91725 Apr 10 Sa 1:00-3:00pm

Stormwater Activities for Educators

Walnut Creek Wetland Center

Age: 18yrs and up. Learn how to engage your classes with fun activities that will allow them to discover how stormwater impacts urban watersheds. Educators of elementary, middle and high school grades are welcome since activities will be adaptable to any age group. We first discuss how urban runoff becomes polluted stormwater and how this may impact aquatic life and water quality. Then we'll use the Wetland Center's rain garden and permeable pavement to demonstrate how the Wetland Center itself is helping lessen the impact of stormwater on the Walnut Creek Watershed. Wake County Extension Staff will be present to share grant options for funding to create your very own 'stormwater classroom' at your school that will be educational but also reduce the negative impacts of stormwater runoff! Earn up to four hours credit for Criteria II NC EE Certification. Class Fee: $10

#91726 Jan 30 Sa 1:00-4:00pm

Wetland Mapping GIS and Field Activities

Walnut Creek Wetland Center

Age: 18yrs and up. This program is perfect for highschool and adult educators. Learn how scientists map wetlands using cutting edge Geographic Information Systems (GIS) techniques and see these principles practiced in the field at the Walnut Creek Wetlands. Learn how to hold your own classroom 'Wetland GIS' program in your school computer room through an onsite demonstration of the direct application of wetland mapping and GIS at the Walnut Creek Wetland Park (a 'Wetland GIS' classroom packet will be sent to you upon receipt of program fees). Registration required four days prior to the program. Class Fee: $20
